

DMAP antlerless harvest permit distribution for the 2010-11 season

For the 2010-11 deer seasons, hunters will now obtain DMAP antlerless harvest permits directly from the PA Game Commission web site or issuing agents. The U.S. Army Corps of Engineers at Raystown Lake will no longer be distributing "DMAP coupons" that in turn are redeemed for harvest permits.

To obtain DMAP antlerless harvest permits, for the Raystown Lake DMAP Area 89, the following two options are available.

- Option 1 - A hunter may obtain a DMAP for Area 89 directly from a license issuing agent such as Wal-mart or sporting goods agent. Simply tell the agent that you are interested in DMAP Area 89. You will be required to pay the appropriate fee, and you will receive the actual harvest permit at that time. The fee for the coupon is $10 for residents and $35 for nonresidents. A list of issuing agents is available from the PA Game Commission.
- Option 2 - Visit the PA Game Commission web site. A hunter may obtain a DMAP Area 89 antlerless harvest permit by visiting the Outdoor Shop on the PA Game commission web site.

Important Notice: Although general Hunting License are currently on sale and Wildlife Management Unit antlerless applications begin July 12, the Raystown Lake DMAP permits will not be available until posted by the Pennsylvania Game Commission.
